Fleet-wide Cybersecurity Services Drive Consistency

Cybersecurity and regulatory compliance obligations continue to become a central focus across multiple industries. To address these challenges, many organizations are developing and implementing fleetwide standard cybersecurity programs, policies and best practices.

Establishing a cybersecurity program across the fleet can be very difficult. Most organizations find that the most challenging effort lies in following the policies and procedures that have been put in place and performing the repetitive tasks required to keep the system up-to-date and secure. Addressing the manpower and expertise required to implement a fleet-wide security program is a daunting task.

Emerson's fleet cybersecurity service can provide the manpower and level of expertise required to implement and maintain a well-defined security program. Emerson's security solutions group of engineers are experienced in all aspects of cybersecurity and networking, and recognize the importance of plant reliability and system security. Our team is uniquely qualified to deliver cybersecurity services to assist you with the development, implementation, and maintenance of your fleet-wide cybersecurity programs.

Fleet cybersecurity services vary based on individual programs, but can include some or all of the following:

- Asset inventories
- Vulnerability assessments
- Network topology mapping
- Identification and recommendation of security controls
- Patch management
- Antivirus updates
- System backups
- Log reviews
- Compliance evidence gathering

Emerson's fleet cybersecurity services are customized to meet the goals and objectives of your cybersecurity program. Our security solutions group provides the manpower and expertise to compliment existing staff and ensure program goals and objectives are achieved.
